Claims 27-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The recitation that the battery pack has a housing with a mechanism for coupling and uncoupling with a handheld tool is considered new matter. While the specification recites such a mechanism on the housing of the tool, this does not imply that one is present on the battery pack. This is because a mechanism is a device which has moving parts, the presence of which on one of two coupling devices does not imply or necessitate moving parts on the other.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 27-35 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. The examiner had previously agreed, and still agrees, that the present mechanism is not present in the previously applied references. However, such a mechanism on the battery pack is not seen as being supported by the present disclosure. Since there is a mechanism on housing of the portable tool, the disclosure would imply that some means is present on the battery housing which would mate with the mechanism on the tool housing. Recitation of such means, or equivalent language, would be favorably considered.

Applicant's IDS of 12/01/03 has been reviewed, but none of the references are seen to disclose the present invention as supported by the disclosure. While Sasaki (JP 8-185,899) discloses a battery pack with a fan, they do not show any means for mating with a coupling mechanism having moving parts. Katz et al. (WO 89/03845) disclose a handheld saw which mates with a container (66) having a cooling fan, but this container does not include batteries, and is instead a substitute for a battery pack (32).

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
